Investment research is a core part of our business. We believe exceptional fund managers are few and far between, but can be identified using a combination of rigorous statistical analysis and face-to-face meetings.

HOW DO WE SELECT INVESTMENTS?

Our proprietary, in-house quantitative model looks at over 2,000 funds and allows us to see more than just past performance. It enables us to drill down and decipher why a fund is at the top (or bottom) of performance tables. A key way to judge a manager is to find out if they consistently add value with their stock selection. In other words, do they do better than we would expect when considering their investment style? That is one of the key things we look for when we evaluate managers.

MORE THAN JUST NUMERICAL ANALYSIS

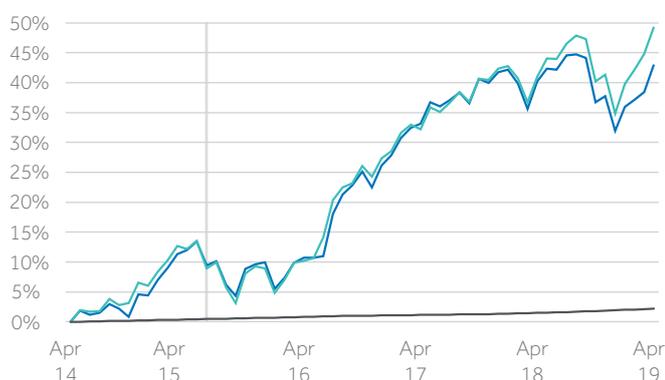

In addition to number crunching, we have unrivalled access to fund managers and conduct hundreds of face-to-face meetings each year. These meetings explore the manager's philosophy, process, team and incentivisation, among other things. We do all this because we want our clients to have exposure only to the limited pool of exceptional talent available. Each fund goes through a rigorous selection process. We constantly monitor funds and regularly review sectors to ensure you're invested only in what we believe are the very best funds.

MARKET REVIEW & OUTLOOK

It's remarkable how quickly markets can change. Investors were treading on eggshells by the end of 2018 after stock markets across the globe took a tumble. But so far this year they've gone off with a bang.

All major markets made gains over the three months to 30 April 2019. The US led the pack, rising 10.5%. Japanese shares were weakest, but still made a respectable gain of 2.9%. Bond markets did well too. Higher-risk parts of the market, including emerging markets and high yield bonds, were some of the best.

There was an exciting development in the portfolio. We appointed Paul Spencer (from Franklin Templeton) to manage part of the portfolio for us. It means the company shares he invests in will be held directly in the portfolio, instead of us investing in his existing funds. It gives him greater flexibility, which we think could improve long-term returns, and reduces costs for investors.

As a result we sold investments in Franklin UK Mid Cap and Franklin UK Smaller Companies – funds managed by Paul Spencer and other members of the same UK team. We also sold JOHCM Japan Dividend Growth. We no longer have as much conviction in this fund as we do in others.

Underlying holdings in focus

ROYAL LONDON CORPORATE BOND

We think Jonathan Platt is an excellent fund manager. He's got lots of experience investing in bonds and can draw from one of the best bond teams in the industry to help run this fund. We like the team's approach, rigorously analysing bonds that many other investors overlook. It's helped drive long-term returns, though it means taking on a bit more risk than some other corporate bond fund managers. We think this slightly more adventurous corporate bond fund's a great choice for income portfolios.

MARLBOROUGH UK MICRO CAP GROWTH

We've invested with Giles Hargreave, a seasoned smaller companies investor, for many years. He manages this fund along with co-manager Guy Feld. They search the entire UK smaller companies landscape to find businesses they think can grow rapidly by dominating their niche or bringing something new and innovative to the market. It's no easy task with hundreds of companies to consider. But the managers are experts in their field and they're supported by an experienced team.

FRANKLIN – PAUL SPENCER

Medium-sized companies are often seen as the investing 'sweet spot'. They're large enough to avoid some of the risks faced by smaller companies, but small enough to have plenty of room to grow. We think there's also a fund manager sweet spot – a long and successful track record, a clear and simple investment approach and a strong team behind them. Paul Spencer ticks all those boxes. In this portfolio he has the flexibility to invest in some smaller businesses with the potential to grow into medium-sized companies.

M&G UK INFLATION LINKED CORPORATE BOND

This fund offers something different to most mainstream corporate and strategic bond funds. Few fund managers invest specifically to keep ahead of inflation, but Ben Lord is one of those few. He aims to avoid most of the volatility that comes with investing in shares or conventional bonds. He also tries to protect investors' wealth from the ravages of inflation rather than try to grow it significantly. We feel this fund could bring some stability to the wider portfolio.
